NEW PENGUINS

The Penguin Book of Scottish Verse Ed. Tom Scott

Tracing the course of Scottish poetry for the past 700 years, this new anthology demonstrates the impact that it has had on the major international poetic traditions.

10s $2.15 Original

The Pelican History of Canada

Kenneth McNaught

From the earliest expeditions in search of fish and fur to Pierre Trudeau and the 1970s, this is an attempt to define those characteristics that are purely Canadian, rather than North American. 8s $1.65 Original

Ah! Burmah on the summer-going by-pass
Where ev'rything is speeding to the sea
It's scarce a cause for wonder
That here where lorries thunder
Burmah petrol keeps our engines running free

(with apologies to John Betjeman)

About Time

A long poem, in ten sections of various styles and metres, about time and its slipperiness, the loves and quarrels of the generations.

Phoenix Living Poets series

C. J. COOPER

Conrad and the Human Dilemma

Examines Conrad's professed central concern for moral issues and for situations where man is faced with a specifically moral dilemma.

The book also shows that the acknowledged aspects of Conrad's genius, such as his skill with irony and symbols, are mere corollaries to his greater concern for exploring the problems of man faced with several choices of action.

Longman Annotated English Poets

GENERAL EDITOR: F. W. BATESON, M.A., B.LITT.

The Poems of JOHN KEATS

Edited by Miriam Allott

This is the first edition of Keat's poems of its kind: that is, a complete, chronological, annotated edition, based on a fresh examination of the texts of the poems and containing a full critical apparatus and commentary.

Publication October 1970 60s

The Poems of WILLIAM BLAKE

Edited by W. H. Stevenson

This edition comprises all Blake's verse, including the scattered verses and epigrams. The successive editions of G. L. Keynes, and lately that of D. V. Erdman, have brought increasing certainty to Blake's text, but in spite of the vast and continuing work of critical scholars, no annotated edition of the poetry has been produced since A. P. Gloss and J. P. R. Wallis forty years ago produced their edition of the PROPHEPIC WORKS.
