

THE STUBBORN STRUCTURE

Essays on Criticism and Society

NORTHROP FRYE

A new collection of lectures and articles on the theory and practice of criticism. The first part, Contexts, discusses its function and purpose; the second, Applications, exemplifies the principles of the first in a series of brilliant studies of individual authors and genres.

THE MELANCHOLY MAN

A Study of Dickens's Novels

JOHN LUCAS

It is John Lucas's intention to show why Dickens is the most important English novelist and to provide a provocative and stimulating critical vision to support this view. This book does not merely pay centenary homage; its original examination of Dickens's development as a novelist, which studies his minor as well as his major works, makes it likely to become a standard work.

THE POETRY OF BROWNING

A Critical Introduction

PHILIP DREW

A close study of the poet's use of language, dramatic techniques and idiom. Philip Drew also covers the ground of previous Browning criticism in order to show where he believes Browning has been misconstrued.

'... Now we have what is likely to remain the definitive critical work on him (Browning) for some time... a most meticulous and intelligent study of a fascinating poet.' British Book News.

MUSIC AND POETRY OF THE ENGLISH RENAISSANCE

BRUCE PATTISON

A reissue

For this reissue Professor Pattison has modernized his bibliographical references and brought a number of points up-to-date. Some reviews of the earlier issue:

'Mr Pattison's book should be of engrossing interest to students of both arts.' Edward J. Dent, The Modern Language Review.

'This is a book every student has, at some time, asked for.' Frank Kermode, Review of English Studies.
