

EDITORIAL

I am happy and proud to announce the first co-operative effort between the University of Calgary and its Francophone partner, the University of Ottawa. We look forward to a long and fruitful partnership between Eastern and Western Canada, between French speaking and English speaking communities of scholarly discourse. I am particularly pleased that this joint endeavour has come about during my last issue of this journal. I wish to thank the committee for its scrupulous reviewing processes and the suggestions the members have offered the various contributors which have strengthened the articles. I wish to thank the book editors, Drs. Nancy Sheehan and Christine Gordon for an excellent and informative journal. Finally, I wish to thank the JET readership whose loyalty to this journal has been unwavering.

We all join in welcoming two new editors to the journal staff, Dr. Philomena Hauck and Dr. Gerald Brûlé, associate editor, from the University of Ottawa.

Patricia T. Rooke

